Charitable Bequest

Include SUSS in Your Will

Anyone – regardless of financial status – can make a charitable bequest, as it will only be in effect after this lifetime.

A charitable bequest can take many forms. You can leave a specific asset, a sum of money, a percentage of your estate, or what remains of your estate after you have provided for your family and other causes. Engage a legal advisor, or make use of a will writing service to draw up your will. You remain in complete control of the process and you can change any bequest provision anytime during your lifetime.

Central Provident Fund Nomination

Include SUSS as a Beneficiary

Your Central Provident Fund (CPF) savings are excluded from your will. Nominate SUSS as a beneficiary of your CPF savings, which include monies in your accounts, as well as CPF Life premiums and stocks and shares bought using your CPF savings, on your CPF Nomination Form. When the time comes, your CPF savings will be distributed in line with the nomination you made.

Life Insurance Policy

Name SUSS as the Beneficiary

We recognise that your family's future is your first priority. However, when an insurance policy no longer serves its original purpose in ensuring your family's financial security, we hope you will consider naming SUSS as the beneficiary.

Universal Life Insurance Policy

Appoint SUSS as the Owner and Beneficiary

Purchasing a universal life insurance policy, and appointing SUSS as the owner and beneficiary would increase the impact of your gift multifold. Speak to your financial advisor on this possibility and the available options.

We understand that estate planning is a personal and private matter. However, if you would like to include SUSS in your legacy, please indicate your intention through this form. We will be able to thank you personally, and ensure that your intent will be honoured.

The information provided is for us to express our gratitude, and is in no way a binding commitment. All details shared will be kept strictly confidential.
